SYNOPSIS.

Cowboys of the Flying Heart ranch are heartbroken over the loss of their much-prized photograph by the defeat of their champion in a foot-race with the cook of the Centipede ranch. A house party is on at the Flying Heart, J. Wallingford Speed, cheer leader at Yale, and Culver Covington, inter-collegiate champion runner, are expected. Helen Blake, Speed's sweetheart, becomes interested in the loss of the photograph.

CHAPTER II.—Continued.

"The Centipede crowd took their defeat badly on Frontier Day, and swore to get even."

"And was Humpy Joe defeated?" asked Helen.

"Was he?" Still Bill shook his head sadly, and sighed for a third time. "It looked like he was running backward, miss."

"But really he was only beaten a foot. It was a wonderful race. I saw it," said Jean. "It made me think of the races at college."

Miss Blake puckered her brows trying to think.

"Joseph," she said. "No, I don't think I have seen him."

Stover's lips met grimly. "I don't reckon you have, miss. Since that race he has been hard to describe. He passed from view hurriedly, so to speak, headed toward the foot-hills, and leaping from crag to crag like the hardy shamoos of the Swiss Alps."

Miss Blake giggled. "What made him hurry so?"

"Us!" Stover gazed at her solemnly. "We ain't none of us been the same since that foot-race. You see, it ain't the financial value of that Echo Photograph, nor the 'double-cross' that hurts; it's the fact that the mangiest outfit in the Territory has trimmed us out of the one thing that stands for honor and excellence and 'scientific attainment,' as the judge said when we won it. That talking-machine meant more to us than you Eastern folks can understand, I reckon."

"If I were you I would cheer up," said Miss Blake, kindly, and with some importance. "Miss Chapin has a college friend coming this week, and he can win back your trophy."

Stover glanced up at Jean quickly. "Is that right, Miss Chapin?"

"He can if he will," Jean asserted. "Can he run?"

"He is the intercollegiate champion," declared that young lady, with proud dignity.

"And do you reckon he'd run for us and the Echo Photograph of New York and Paris, if we framed a race? It's an honor!"

But Miss Chapin recalled her brother's caution of the day before, and hesitated.

"I don't think he would. You see, he is an amateur—he might be out of training."

"The idea!" exclaimed Miss Blake, indignantly. "If Culver won't run, I know who will!" She closed her lips firmly, and turned to the foreman. "You tell your friends that we'll see you get your trophy back."

"Helen, I—"

"I mean it!" declared Miss Blake, with spirit.

Stover bowed loosely. "Thank you, miss. The very thought of it will cheer up the gang. Life round here is blacker 'n a spade flush. I think I'll tell Willie." He shambled rapidly off around the house.

"Helen dear, I don't want Culver to get mixed up in this affair," explained Miss Chapin, as soon as they were alone. "It's all utterly foolish. Jack doesn't want him to, either."

"Very well. If Culver doesn't feel that he can beat that cook running, I know who will try. Mr. Speed will do anything I ask. It's a shame the way those men have been treated."

"But Mr. Speed isn't a sprinter."

"Indeed!" Miss Blake bridled. "Perhaps Culver Covington isn't the only athlete in Yale College. I happen to know what I'm talking about."

"I don't think he will consent when he learns the truth."

"I assure you," said Miss Blake, sweetly, "he will be delighted."

CHAPTER III.

It was still early in the afternoon when Jack Chapin and the youthful chaperon found the other young people together on the gallery.

"Here's a telegram from Speed," began Jack.

"It's terribly funny," said Mrs. Keap. "That Mexican brought it to us down at the spring-house."

Miss Blake lost her bored expression, and sat up in the hammock.

"Mr. Jack Chapin," read the owner of the Flying Heart Ranch. "Dear Jack: I couldn't wait for Covington, so meet with brass-band and fireworks this afternoon. Have flowers in bloom in the little park beside the depot, and see that the daisies nod to me—J. Wallingford Speed."

"Park, eh?" said Fresno, dryly. "Telegraph office, water-tank, and a cattle-chute. Where does this fellow think he is?"

"Here's a postscript," added Chapin. "I have a valet who does not seem to enjoy the trip. Divide a kiss among the girls."

"Well, well! He's stingy with his kisses," observed Berkeley. "Who is this humorous party?"

"He was a Freshman at Yale the year I graduated," explained Jack.

"Too bad he never got out of that class." It was evident that Mr. Speed's levity made no impression upon the Glee Club tenor. "He hates to talk about himself, doesn't he?"

"I think he is very clever," said Miss Blake, warmly.

"How well do you know him?"

"Not as well as I'd like to."

Fresno puffed at his little pipe without remarking at this.

"Well, who wants to go and meet him?" queried Jack.

"Won't you?" asked his sister.

"I can't. I've just got word from the Eleven X that I'm wanted. The foreman is hurt. I may not be back for some time."

"Nigger Mike met me," observed Fresno, darkly.

"Then Nigger Mike for Speed," laughed the cattle-man. "I've told Carara to hitch up the pintos for me. I must be going."

"I'll see that you are safely started," said the young widow; and leaving the trio on the gallery, they entered the house.

When they had gone Jean smiled wisely at Helen. "Roberta's such a thoughtful chaperon," she observed, whereupon Miss Blake giggled.

As for Mrs. Keap, she was inquiring of Jack with genuine solicitude:

"Do you really mean that you can be gone for some time?"

"I do. It may be a week; it may be longer; I can't tell until I get over there."

"I'm sorry," Mrs. Keap's face showed some disappointment.

"So am I."

"I shall have to look out for these young people all by myself."

"What a queer little way you have of talking, as if you were years and years old."

"I do feel as if I were. I—I—well, I have had an unhappy experience. You know unhappiness builds months into years."

"When Jean got up this house-party," young Chapin began, absently. "I thought I should be bored to death. But—I haven't been. You know, I don't want to go over there?" He nodded vaguely toward the south.

"I thought perhaps it suited your convenience." His companion watched him gravely. "Are you quite sure that your sister's guests have not—had something to do with this sudden determination?"

"I am quite sure. I never liked the old Flying Heart so much as I do today. I never regretted leaving it so

"This here is a real foot-runner," said Stover.

"Exactly," agreed the other. "Where is he?"

"He'll be here this afternoon. Nigger Mike's bringin' him over from the railroad. He's a guest."

"Oh!"

"Yep! He's intercollegit champion of Yale."

"Yale?" repeated the near-sighted man. "Don't know I ever been there. Much of a town?"

"I ain't never traveled east myself, but Miss Jean and the little yaller-

"We've Got Another Foot-Runner," much as I do at this moment."

"We may be gone before you return."

Young Chapin started. "You don't mean that, really?"

Mrs. Keap nodded her dark head. "It was all very well for me to chaperon Helen on the way out from the east, but—it isn't exactly regular for me to play that part here with other young people to look after."

"But you understand, of course—Jean must have explained to you. Mother was called away suddenly, and she can't get back now. You surely won't leave—you can't." Chapin added, hopefully: "Why, you would break up Jean's party. You see, there's nobody around here to take your place."

"But—"

"Nonsense! This is an unconventional country. What's wrong with you as a chaperon, anyway? Nobody out here even knows what a chaperon is. And I'll be back as soon as I can."

"Do you really think that would help?" Roberta's eyes laughed humorously.

"I'm thinking of the others, I'm thinking myself," declared the young man. "I don't want you to go by return. You must not! If you go, I shall follow you." He grasped her impulsively.

"Oh!" cried the chaperon. "This may even more impossible. Go! Go!" pushed him away, her color surged to her old Eleven X Ranch way."

"But I must," he declared, earnestly. Then he retreated farther: "It's no use, it goes now until—"

"You have won me less than a week!"

"That is long enough, Roberta—"

Mrs. Keap, with honest embarrassment, said: "Don't you see what a situation is? If Jean and Helen should discover—"

"Jean planned it; even this."

Mrs. Keap shut him in horrified silence.

"You do love Roberta?" Chapin undertook to reach the girl's hands from her face, with a slight cough in the hall behind him to turn suddenly in time to Berkeley Fresno passing the door.

"There! You see, Mrs. Keap's face was tragic. "You—" She turned and fled, leaving master of the ranch in the middle of the floor, bewildered, but a blundered to be happy. A moment the plump face of Berkeley Fresno appeared cautiously around the door-jamb. He coughed again gravely.

"I happened to be going," said he. "You'll pardon me?"

"This is the most settled spot in New Mexico!" he declared with an artificial laugh, shaking his indignation.

Fresno slowly brought his round body out from concealment.

"I came in to get a nap."

"Why don't you carry aches?"

Fresno puffed complacently upon his pipe. "This," he mused, his host departed, "eliminates the chaperon, and that helps some."

Still Bill Stover lost time in breaking the news to the girls.

"There's something coming," he advised Willie. "We've another foot-runner!"

If he had hoped for an arrest of rapture on the part of the gun man he was disappointed, for Willie shifted his holster, smile evilly through his glasses, and inquired with ominous restraint:

"Where is he?"

Being the one man on the Flying Heart who had occasion to fire a gun, Willie seldom smiled for a sense of humor. Here it may be said that, deceived at first by his solemn appearance, his fellow-laborers had glibly at Willie's affectation of a tingling holster, but the custom had been known to him. When it became known who he was, the other hands had volubly declared that was a free country, where a man might exercise a wide discretion in the choice of personal adornment, and as for them, they avowed unreservedly that the practice of packing Colts was one which met with the most cordial approbation. In the Willie's six-shooter had become accepted as a part of the local scenery, and, like the scenery, no one thought of remarking upon it, least of all those who best knew his lack of humor. He had come to them, out of the Nowhere, some four years previously, and while he never spoke of himself, and discouraged reminiscence in others, it became known through those vague uncharted channels by which news travels on the frontier, that back in the Texas Panhandle there was a limping marshal who felt regrets at mention of his name, and that farther north were other men who had a superstitious dread of undersized cowmen with spectacles.

"This here is a real foot-runner," said Stover.

"Exactly," agreed the other. "Where is he?"

"He'll be here this afternoon. Nigger Mike's bringin' him over from the railroad. He's a guest."

"Oh!"

"Yep! He's intercollegit champion of Yale."

"Yale?" repeated the near-sighted man. "Don't know I ever been there. Much of a town?"

SYMPTOMS OF HOG CHOLERA AND THE PREVENTION OF THE DISEASE

Showing How the Hog Is Vaccinated.

By W. J. CARMICHAEL,
Assistant in Animal Husbandry University of Illinois.

There was reported in 1833 by the bureau of animal husbandry in Ohio a disease among swine in Ohio which has since been known as hog cholera. It has spread along the lines of commerce, and is now prevalent in almost every locality where swine are grown. There are but few places in the United States which are free from its ravages, and it is the one serious drawback to the great industry of pork production.

There are no set symptoms which are present in all cases, but in general cases are alike and show some or all of the following symptoms: Weakness, drowsiness and constipation, followed by diarrhoea, the eyes become watery and locomotion becomes weak, and the animal has imperfect control of hind legs, causing it to weave when it walks. The skin around the flanks and forelegs becomes purple; the appetite may be lost, and the animal becomes more or less lifeless. In chronic cases, there is rapid emaciation, accompanied by extreme nervousness and partial paralysis.

A post-mortem examination shows greatest changes in the large intestines. There may be found yellowish black ulcers, and all mucous membranes may be red and swollen. The spleen will be enlarged, soft and gorged with blood; very small, dark red blotches will be found on the kidneys; the abdominal cavity and pleural cavity may contain a large amount of serum, which may be sticky on account of coagulation; the lungs may be congested, as in pneumonia, and the general interior of the body will be abnormal in appearance, especially in chronic cases.

Hog cholera is not apparent in the herd until 8 to 14 days after infection, and the first loss will usually be 6 to 16 days after that. In chronic cases the animal may be sick for four to six weeks before dying or recovering. Those having the disease for a long time are almost invariably emaciated at the end of the illnesses.

It is a well-known fact that up to the present time no sure cure for cholera has been found, nor does there seem to be any prospect for such a medicine. However, there is one practice which has passed the experimental stage and bids fair to become the only possible means of controlling the dreadful malady. The method of control is prevention by vaccination. It has been tried out thoroughly, and in spite of discouraging reports must be recognized for what it has done in cases where it has been intelligently administered. It is not a treatment to be administered by ignorant or careless persons, but should be given under ideal conditions and with great care and accuracy. It may be done in either of two methods: (1) by serum alone, or (2) by serum-simultaneous or simultaneous methods.

The first method is used only on sick herds and consists of injecting under the skin serum obtained from a hyperimmunized hog (or one which has been previously immunized). It is not a permanent treatment, and is effective for but a few weeks, or a few months in some cases. The simultaneous method consists of injecting into the pig hog-cholera serum and virus (diseased blood) at the same time, but in different parts of the body. In either case the utmost care should be taken so as to avoid poisoning by introducing bacteria while using the needle. To insure safety, the skin around the spot of injection should be washed with a 2½ per cent. solution of carbolic acid. In animals weighing less than 250 pounds the serum is injected into one thigh, while diseased blood (or virus) is injected into the other. In larger animals the injections may be in the shoulders or jowls. If abscesses are formed at the place of injection they should be thoroughly washed and opened and the animal kept in a clean place until well. The second or simultaneous method will insure immunity for eight months to a year, and much longer in some cases, and should be used when a herd is in danger of infection.

The animals should be put on half feed for 48 hours previous to the operation and fed light rations for a week after treatment. Corn should be omitted entirely from the ration during this time. During the operation and afterwards the surroundings should be as clean as possible, and the animals should not be exposed at all to storms nor confined in dirty quarters, for they will have a fever, in some cases up to 108 degrees, but should return to normal within ten days, if they have proper care and surroundings.

USE OF SILAGE AS FEED IN SUMMER

By R. S. HULCE,
Dairy Department, University of Illinois.

The use of silage as a summer feed is growing in favor. As evidence of this, one has only to note the large number of farms on which a second silo has been erected, this second silo very often being for the storage of silage for summer use. Where pasture alone has been depended upon, returns have not been satisfactory. At a conservative estimate, it takes at least two acres of pasture to keep a cow through the pasturing season. This same two acres planted to corn yielding twelve tons of silage per acre, average yield, will furnish enough silage to feed four cows throughout the entire year when each cow receives over thirty pounds daily. Such a silage as this, together with the increasing price of land, make extensive silaging of uncultivated meadow, as formerly practiced, expensive. The practice of combining some pasturing with silaging of silage for summer use is the acre necessary to supply the amount of feed necessary and the supply of feed more sure when pasture alone is relied upon.

Use of silage crops for summer feed has been practiced to good advantage, where relied upon entirely, the supply of feed is greater and surer than the pasture. Silage compared with hay, has one advantage in that it is a variety; on the other hand the raising and feeding of silage crops involves more time and labor than where silage is used. Comparing the value of silage crops and corn silage, actual test trials show that silage-fed animals produce larger amounts of milk, and that larger yields of nutrients are secured from corn in the form of silage than from corn in the form of silage. This does not mean that silage crops should in any way be discouraged, except when they can be replaced by silage.

ROUMANIAN STUDIES CORN

Professor Andronescu Will Spend a Year at the Illinois Agricultural College.

Prof. D. J. Andronescu, professor of agriculture and official representative from Roumania, is at the university of Illinois to study "maize." He will remain there one year to make a comprehensive study of corn, when he will go into the western states for a year's study of dry farming and conditions. After completing work in the west, he will go to Japan, where he will study the agriculture of that country.

Professor Andronescu owns and operates 8,000 acres of land in his native country, and is vitally interested in improving agricultural conditions there by his study in America.

Importance of Spraying. Spraying is the first order of business, if you are planning on getting first-class fruit. Care in other branches of orcharding will be of no avail if the bugs get there first.

AILING WOMEN OF MIDDLE AGE

Mrs. Hilbert Tells of Her Distressing Symptoms During Change of Life and How She Found Relief.

Fleetwood, Pa.—"During the Change of Life I was hardly able to be around at all. I always had a headache and I was so dizzy and nervous that I had no rest at night. The flashes of heat were so bad sometimes that I did not know what to do."

"One day a friend advised me to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and it made me a strong well woman. I am very thankful that I followed my friend's advice and I shall recommend it as long as I live. Before I took the Compound I was always sickly and now I have not had medicine from a doctor for years. You may publish my letter."—Mrs. EDWARD B. HILBERT, Fleetwood, Pa.

Such warning symptoms as sense of suffocation, hot flashes, headaches, back-aches, dread of impending evil, timidity, sounds in the ears, palpitation of the heart, sparks before the eyes, irregularities, constipation, variable appetite, weakness and inquietude, and dizziness, are promptly heeded by intelligent women who are approaching the period in life when woman's great change may be expected.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound invigorates and strengthens the female organism and builds up the weakened nervous system. It has carried many women safely through this crisis.

A HIDDEN DANGER

It is a duty of the kidneys to rid the blood of uric acid, an irritating poison that is constantly forming in the body.

When the kidneys fail, uric acid causes rheumatic attacks, headaches, dizziness, gravel, urinary troubles, weak eyes, dropsy or heart disease. Doan's Kidney Pills help the kidneys fight off uric acid—bringing new strength to weak kidneys and relief from backache and urinary ills.

An Indiana Case. Mrs. George Harrington, Crawfordville, Ind., says: "My husband awoke twice normal size, and my body was so bloated I could hardly breathe. I had awful pains in my back, and terrible headaches. I spent weeks in a hospital, but came out worse than ever. I had given up hope when I began using Doan's Kidney Pills. They cured me completely, and I have had no trouble since."

WHAT THE FOURTH COSTS US

STARTING OUT TO CELEBRATE

GIRLS ARE MORE SANE

HE LIGHTS HIS LARGEST CRACKER

If the experience of past years is repeated the annual celebration of the signing of the Declaration of Independence this year will cost 200 lives. No more serious results, as far as casualties are concerned, could be expected from a considerable battle. For though the number of dead will be relatively small, the list of wounded will be very large. Probably 20,000 or more will be seriously hurt in one way or another by explosives. Of these more than 100 will lose one or both legs. Nearly 100 boys will receive injuries in the right hand from toy pistols, from which they will die in a lingering and painful manner from lockjaw.

In the palm of the human hand there is a plexus, or network of nerves. When a toy pistol explodes, or shoots backward, as it is always liable to do, the wound inflicted is usually in the palm; there is laceration of the network of nerves aforesaid, and lockjaw is likely to follow.

The estimate of 20,000 wounded does not include the slight hurt, who will make a much longer list. But taking the figures given, and leaving out of consideration all destruction of property by fire, it would seem that the nation's bill for its Fourth of July celebration is a pretty heavy one.

The property loss by fires due to careless use of explosives, will amount to at least $500,000. Possibly it may run up into the millions, but the estimate here given represents merely an average Fourth of July. People will throw fireworks into places where they are likely to start conflagration, and skyrockets, which excite such enthusiasm when they go up, have a deplorable way of coming down upon roofs and making mischief.

Then, too, many of the modern kind of fireworks, such as the bombs, which rise 1,000 feet in the air and explode, liberating beautiful showers of varicolored stars, contain considerable quantities of high explosives, and are proportionately dangerous. Only last Fourth of July, it will be remembered, many people were killed and wounded by the accidental setting off of a quantity of such bombs which had been put in readiness for a fireworks exhibition.

Some, probably a dozen, shops that contain large stocks of fireworks will be destroyed by the accidental setting off of the combustibles, incidentally endangering much property in their neighborhood. Few finer and more striking exhibitions in the fireworks line are given on the glorious Fourth than are furnished by such impromptu displays, but they cost a great deal of money.

If grown people are satisfied to risk life and limb in playing with the high explosives contained in many kinds of fireworks, it is nobody's business but theirs. Unfortunately, some of the instruments of celebration placed in the hands of children are loaded with small quantities of similar deadly materials. Naturally, the little ones like best the torpedoes which make the loudest noise, and those are the ones that contain fulminate of mercury (an exceedingly dangerous substance) and sometimes even dynamite.

Just why the police do not take the necessary pains to suppress the sale of such torpedoes nobody can say. To offer them for sale is against the law, but ordinarily the regulation is not enforced, and little Bobby or Johnny walks innocently about the streets on the Fourth of July with enough dynamite in his jacket pocket to injure him seriously, or possibly kill him, if a mischance should set off his package of torpedoes all at once.

Parents are not acquainted sufficiently with the danger that lurks in some kinds of torpedoes. If they were at all aware of it, accidents of the kind would be less frequent, and public opinion would bring about the proper enforcement of the law which forbids the sale of these bombs—for bombs they are, though only small ones. Of course, most torpedoes are entirely harmless; but some of the small ones, round and very hard, about the size of a marble, which go off with a report like a pistol-shot, are in the deadly class, containing as they do fulminate of mercury.

Years ago, as most people will be able to recall, there was a dreadful Fourth of July accident in Philadelphia. A large quantity of torpedoes, of a kind whose sale had been expressly prohibited by local ordinance, was exposed on a street stand, kept by an Italian, on one of the busiest downtown thoroughfares. Exactly what caused it nobody ever knew, but apparently a stone thrown by a boy struck the torpedoes, and all of them went off together. They were loaded with dynamite, and the explosion was tremendous. Seven children were killed, while a number of others were more or less seriously hurt.

A great many of the Fourth of July accidents are caused by children's mischief. A boy will throw a firecracker at a girl, for example, burning her seriously. Then there is the deadly cracker that has failed to explode, and which must be examined and relighted, the consequence being an unexpected report and possibly the loss of an eye. The large crackers, some of which are a foot or more in length, are really dangerous bombs, and should not be put in childish hands. No prudent father would allow his boy to use a toy cannon, with loose gunpowder, which is likely to become ignited with disaster.

STILL AMONG THE LIVE ONES

Woman's Fear That Husband Had Departed This Life Proved Altogether Unfounded.

"I beg your pardon, if I disturb you, sir," she said to the keeper of the morgue, "but my husband has been gone two days, and I fear that he may have been killed on the street and brought here."

"Husband missing, eh?" queried the official. "We may have him in here. What sort of a looking man was he?"

"A short, thick-set man, sir, with side whiskers and two front teeth gone."

"Um. Side whiskers, eh? Two front teeth gone? Was he a man likely to get in from of a cable car?"

"He was, sir. If he thought the car meant to bluff him he'd stand on the track until he was run over."

"How was he on dodging hacks?"

"He never dodged one in his life. He used to carry half a dozen rocks tied up in a handkerchief, and the hackman who tried to run him down got his head knocked off."

"Been gone two days, eh?"

"Two days and a night, sir, and you don't know how worried I am."

"Yes, I suppose so," absently replied the man. "I wish I could say he was here, and thus relieve your anxiety."

"Then he isn't here?"

"No'm—not unless he shayed off

astrous results. Indeed, the list of killed and wounded would be enormously diminished if parents would take the necessary pains to keep toy pistols, raw gunpowder, and giant firecrackers out of the hands of their children, reserving to themselves also the business of setting off the fireworks in the evening.

If we must have a Fourth of July celebration, let us try to be more sensible about it, and so cut down the number of slain and injured, as well as the serious property loss of bygone Fourth.

Guns and pistols are not suitable playthings for children. The little boy who picks up his toy gun and playfully says, "I'll shoot you," should be taught that even in play he must not point a weapon at another, for it is in just such ways that respect for life is lessened and involuntary manslaughter is the result.

Thoughtful parents will not give children such toys. It has been the custom for many years to celebrate the Fourth of July with noise and fireworks.

Children did not originate the practice. It is the method shown by their parents, and so each year we have a slaughter of the innocents equal in number to the loss in a great battle, and, as in the days of old, when human sacrifices were laid on the altar, we sacrifice to the nation's glory hundreds of its embryo citizens.

The man who takes his life in his hands and goes to battle for his country's protection gives his life to a worthy cause, but the children whose lives are sacrificed to celebrate the nation's birth have given their lives to little purpose.

Is it not time that parents should think of this subject, and see if they cannot devise other methods of celebrating our national holiday that will not entail such sacrifices of life and property? Is it not time that in an age when peace and arbitration are in the air, and when the great nations of the earth are steadily advancing toward the day when disputes and differences will be settled by arbitration, that we should begin to teach the children higher ideals of patriotism than noise and shooting?

and went to dentist before he was brought in. Sorry to disappoint you, but we just out of short, thick-set men with side whiskers. One may be brought in any hour, however."

"If not here then, he is still at?" suggested the woman, as the look of anxiety left her face.

"I should so infer, ma'am—could so infer. In fact, ma'am, I am sure your husband is alive and well."

"Thanks, sir—thanks! You've sent him?"

"I have, ma'am. Less than an hour ago he asked me to drive with him in that saloon over there, and from this window you can now see him standing up to the bar with side whiskers and all."

"Thank heaven, and will go over and take him by the neck, and—"

"Glad to be of service to you, ma'am. If I had a jet, thick-set man with side whiskers and two front teeth out on a slab, I would admit you with pleasure, but as I haven't, you'll have to take up with the live one over here, and make the best of it. Good day, ma'am. Call again if you happen this way, and I may be in better luck."—Philadelphia Record.

"So there are. The practice is nearly stopped."

"Is it? Just listen to those dogs!"

RINGWORM ON L'S FACE

Stratford, Iowa—Two years ago this winter my son had ringworm on the first it was in small red spots. He started looking like a red dot and then they got about the size of a bird's egg. He had a white rough ring around them, and grew continually worse. The child suffered terribly, and burning, so that he could sleep nights. He scratched and they looked fearful. He was when he had them. We used so many bottles of liniment, but nothing did.

"I saw a child had a rash on the face and I decided to use Cuticura Soap and Ointment. One month, and they cured my completely." (Signed) Mrs. Bartram, Jan. 30, 1912.

Cuticura Soap and Ointment sold throughout the world. Sample of each free, with Skin Book. Address post-card, Cuticura, Dept. L, Boston.

"Tango." A girl looked up the word "tango" in a Latin dictionary. This is what she found: "To take in hand, carry off, be contiguous to, to strike, beat, etc."

Estimating it. "I haven't kept you waiting too long," gushed the girl. "Only about three dollars' worth," estimated the man with the taxicab outside.

Libby's Luncheon Delicacies

Dried Beef, sliced wafer thin, Hickory Smoked and with a choice flavor that you will remember.

Vienna Sausage—just right for Red Hots, or to serve cold. We suggest you try them served like this: Cut rye bread in thin slices, spread with creamed butter and remove crusts. Cut a Libby's Vienna Sausage in half, lengthwise, and lay on the bread. Place on the top of the sausage a few thin slices of Libby's Midget Pickles. Cover with the other slice of bread and press lightly together. Arrange on plate and serve garnished with a few parsley sprays.

Found Ring in Bird's Nest. Joe Cannon, deputy auditor of Hardin county, O., has found his ring. He lost it in the courthouse yard, but diligent search was futile. Janitor Yost was cleaning birds' nests out of the eaves of the building recently and found the ring woven in one of the nests.

IS IT RIGHT TO ADVERTISE COCA COLA? Men who play the wily game of politics have discovered that the best way to distract the attention of the public from their own shortcomings is to make a loud-mouthed sensational attack upon someone else. As the cut-throat eludes its pursuer by clouding the surrounding water with the contents of its ink sac, so the political adventurer takes advantage of the ignorance and prejudices of the people to escape from his indefensible position by muddying the waters of public opinion.

A case in point is the recent attack made upon the religious press for carrying Coca-Cola advertising. This attack was made by a politician who was supposed to be an expert in chemistry but who, having brought a suit against the Coca-Cola Company, was humiliated by having to acknowledge that he could not qualify as an expert. The court decided in favor of the Coca-Cola Company as it was clearly shown that the only essential difference between Coca-Cola and coffee or tea is that the former contains only about half as much caffeine as the latter and that the flavor is different.

The question as to whether it is right to advertise Coca-Cola seems to resolve itself therefore into the question as to whether it is right to advertise coffee, tea, chocolate, cocoa and other beverages of the caffeine group.—Adv.

Small, Persistent Jibber-Imagined Colored Man Had Been Punished in the Customary Way.

There are no negro settlers in the portion of the Ozark Mountains of Arkansas traversed by the St. Paul branch of the St. Louis & San Francisco railroad. Accordingly, many children grow to the age when they attend high school before they see a colored man.

Little Johnny had been a resident of Combs, Ark., all his life. He was an adept at fibbing and to break him of the habit his mother painted a little spot on his hand with ink every time he caught him fibbing. The result was that some days he would have several black spots on his hands.

A new railroad is building from Combs south, and some of the grading contractors imported negroes to drive teams. One day Johnny ran to his mother very excitedly, and exclaimed:

"Mamma, I've seen the biggest liar in the world. His mother must have used a whole bottle of ink on him! Come and see him!"

M. E. CHURCH NOTES

Next Sunday morning and evening preaching by the pastor. If the weather is not 15 minute sermon on Sunday night.

Saturday July 5th pipe organ recital and musical beginning at 8 o'clock p. m. Tickets reserved until 8:15 p. m.

About 150 tickets have already been sold, some good seats still left, see the pastor quick and secure your seat.

There will be six electric fans in the church to keep you cool, and the program will be of an unusual quality. Mr. Kurzenknecht does most of his pipe organ recital work under the auspices and plays regularly in Chicago masonic lodges. Mr. Todd is a member of the faculty of the Bush Temple Conservatory of Music and one of Chicago's leading tenor singers.

A pretty souvenir program of the pipe organ recital and Sunday services will be distributed on the evening of the recital.

Morgan Mot.

A Pierpont Morgan mot, or epigram, on the subject of energy was repeated the other night at the Metropolitan Club in New York, where Mr. Morgan once said: "The satisfied, unambitious man, the man without energy, can seldom afford to take that famous and popular room at the top."

Crisp Remarks From the Bench.

"The law says a man can assign his business to his wife and live in idleness," observed Judge Cluer to a debtor at Whitechapel (London) county court, who repudiated a business debt, saying his wife owned the business.

"If I had my way," said his honor, "I would have a bill printed in big type and placed outside the shop stating, 'I am dishonest; I won't pay. I am also an idle dog, and do nothing, and intend to live on my wife.'"

"In Rome it was the custom for a debtor to be handed over as a slave to his creditor and made to work."

OLD AGE ONLY A MICROBE

Scientist Claims It Is Not Necessary That People Should Feel Burdened With Years.

It seems that according to most recent discoveries old age is not a natural result of years, but is a microbe. At least this is claimed by the scientist, Metchnikoff of the Pasteur Institute in Paris.

It is not necessary that people should feel burdened with years and grow feeble and exhausted as the months roll into years. All that is due to a microbe in the body, and when science can once discover the antitoxin which can successfully combat the poisonous effects of the microbe, we can live on, perhaps not longer, but without discomfort until the end comes. He bases his theory on his observations of mammals as compared with birds.

A dog or horse, for instance, shows distinct signs of senility. They grow feeble and decrepit and break down in every way. But birds do not. A duck that is twenty years old shows no signs of advanced age. Parrots remain for long years in a youthful state and retain their brilliant plumage. In the case of a parrot, which, according to reliable information is seventy to seventy-five years old, it is impossible to recognize old age, so entirely normal is its appearance and so easy its movements.

The cause, it is claimed, lies in the difference in the intestines in mammals and birds. The latter are so built that the microbes which are so abundant in the intestines of the mammals do not or cannot accumulate in the bird. In the mammal they increase from year to year, and the toxic effect from these intestinal sources produces the phenomena which we call "old age."—Chicago Tribune.

IMPORTANCE OF GOOD HUMOR

Business Man Tells Why It Is Necessary to Have Men of Friendly Spirit.

"If my bookkeeper is a man of sour disposition," said a business man, "I don't mind it so much. He comes in contact with the office force only, and if he is a good bookkeeper we can get along with his sourness; but of course it is important to have men of good humor at all points where they come in contact with the public. I don't mean jolly, foolish men, but men of natural good humor and the friendly spirit and courtesy that commonly goes with it.

"I regard it as of high importance to have such men at the counters, where they deal with people coming in, regulars and strangers. People instinctively judge of an establishment by the first person they meet in it; if he is a man of courtesy they feel like coming again; if he is cool and indifferent to them they feel like staying away.

"We aim to have good humored men for shipping clerks. Such a man can expedite work a lot; his spirit is contagious, puts everybody in good humor; every truckman likes him, cottons to him, and will move faster and do more for him than he would for a sour, grumpy man. And it's so all around.

"We can stand a sour bookkeeper, if he's a good one; but at all points where they come in contact with people outside we want men of good humor; human; and that's the spirit in which we try to do business ourselves."

Make Your Back Yard Profitable.

Today, in the United States, thousands of people are making money from the back yards, asserts a writer in Opportunity.

Some are making their entire livelihoods from a few hundred feet of ground, while in other instances incomes are doubled and even trebled by the judicious farming of small patches of ground as a side line or odd-time job. Investigation has proved, in fact, that it is not only possible, but profitable, to conduct a small lot farm and in hundreds of instances people in all sections of the country are earning incomes direct from the soil of their home acre.

The reason so many people who have the opportunity to grow vegetables and other crops for their own use, as well as for sale, do not do so is due, no doubt, to the fact that they fail to understand the real profits that can be derived from a small plot of ground. As a matter of fact more vegetables can be grown in the city or suburban back yard than the average family can eat, with a good quantity to spare.

The French "Brulot."

In many parts of my country, France, a "brulot" is a sort of a fruit cake, sometimes a plum pudding, over which a plentiful quantity of rum or cognac is poured, then set afire, thus affording great joy to those around the table, writes a correspondent.

The immediate result is the burning of the whiskers of those who have whiskers and get too near the dish, then the partaking of the cake, which leaves in the mouth a not altogether pleasant taste of cake, rum, sulphur from the abominable French matches used to light the thing, and a general sensation of having swallowed a burnt whiskey bottle cork.

I am aware that my description of a "brulot" is far from being as poetical as that of the picture of a bowl made of an orange peel and flaming aesthetically like the urn of the Vestals. It is true, nevertheless.

Something Missing.

Rev. Mr. Johnslingham had depicted beautifully the wonders of the thither shore, including the milk and honey rivers which nourish the blessed, but after service one of the brothers sought him eagerly.

"Yes, brotah."

"No chicken?"

"No, brotah."

"Or pork chops?"

"No, brotah."

"Possum and sweet 'aters neithah?"

"No, brotah."

"An' nary a watermillyun?"

"No, deah brotah."

"Den, reberend, does you think the Lohd was calculatin' on de cullud man when he built dat place?"

DOLBY IMPOSED ON NEW FIGHTING FORCE

WHICH BROKE A SELFISH RESOLUTION.

Had to Play Part of Hog on Wounded Street Car, Until With Borrowed Baby Appeared.

Dolby's. That is why he gave his young son to the good-looking brown-haired woman in the triangular hat. She had not been carrying a baby. If she had, she would have been carrying the baby of the trip that was going to play the hog.

"I'm deah Bowler," he said to Mr. Bowler. "I am even, I've found a Nothing shot to stick to it, too. man with a in rout me out till I got home."

Bowler said, "as did several other passengers who overheard Dolby's selfish resolution. The young woman in the hat stood within hearing distance, Dolby thus declared himself, he did not say 'Humph.' She thought it.

Presently she edged up to the car until she stood directly in front of Dolby. About that time the baby began to show off. He had at Dolby's hat, first with the foot and then with the right, and with both feet simultaneously, said, "Oo-oo."

Dolby looked up at the baby's eye. The young man's eyes raised his eyes to travel a further. That time he encountered an appealing glance from the young man. Dolby became still more elated; he sat still a few seconds longer.

"Madam," he said, "you have this seat?"

"Thank you," sighed the young woman. "You are very kind."

It really was not worth while to tell Dolby that. He already had an exaggerated notion of his own magnanimity, so, to even things up, he trotted to the back platform and quailed with the conductor. When he got tired of that he stepped on the car again. Directly in front of him, but under different guard, sat the baby that had so rudely assaulted the rim of his hat a minute before.

"Oo-oo-oo," cooed the baby.

"Hello," said Dolby. "Are you the kid that took liberties with my headgear a little while ago?"

Did you get down to this end of the car?"

The baby's reply was not exactly intelligible, so his mother supplied it with a more lucid explanation.

"He belongs here," she said. "I lady sent him back. She just rowed him for a few minutes."

With one quick glance Dolby treated to the platform, and there stayed.

World's Largest Index.

On Beacon Hill, in Boston, under the golden dome of the statehouse, is one of the largest indexes in the world. In fact, the Russian public index is the only one known to be larger. More than 9,000,000 names, births, marriages and deaths in Massachusetts from 1843 make a complete record, showing not only where people were born and where they died, but also statistics which are vital in making up calculations. Before this time, says the National Magazine, the records were kept in the different towns, but now they are all concentrated in the statehouse in Boston. In a relatively small space all these records are preserved, and as births, marriages and deaths come in, different forms of cards are used, and a great variety of names, Grecian, Assyrian, Italian and others now mingle with good old New England names that have been on the records since the landing of the Mayflower.

Freezing an Easy Death.

Freezing to death, writes a medical authority, is preceded by a drowsiness which makes the end painless—the body actually feels warm and goes comfortably to sleep. Experiments have been made with animals to show just how freezing to death proceeds.

In one of these experiments, in which the animal was placed in a temperature of 125 to 150 degrees below zero, the breathing and heart beats at first were quickened, the organic heat of the body actually rising above normal.

This rising showed a sudden and an intense effort on the part of functions to preserve the body's temperature. Then the violent heart action gave out suddenly and death came when the temperature of the body dropped to 71 degrees.

High Price for Straightness.

One of the most difficult problems in practical mechanics is to make a straight edge. How difficult it is may be judged from an incident that occurred in the shop of a celebrated astronomical instrument maker.

A patron asked what would be the price of "a perfect straight edge of glass 26 inches long."

"It cannot be made perfect," said the instrument maker; "but it could probably be made with a limit of error amounting to only a fraction of a wave length of light."

"How much would that cost?"

"About forty thousand dollars." It turned out that the customer wanted the straight edge for a scraper, and that an error of one sixty-fourth of an inch would not bother him.

FRENCH ARMY OFFICERS EXPERIMENTING WITH EAGLES.

Send Big Birds Against Aeroplanes Which They Fiercely Attack and Turn Upside Down—Must Seek Protection.

An interesting experiment, in view of the fact that the world's armies are now facing the problem of how to cope with the new force in warfare—the aeroplane, is being conducted by a number of French officers at Nice.

The idea, it seems, was suggested by the fate of the famous aviator, Rogers, who met death because a seagull flew against him and disturbed his control of his machine. The officers argued amongst themselves that if a modest-sized bird such as the seagull could wreck an aviator, the powerful eagle could surely become a terrific fighting and wrecking force in the air. So, as Nice is but a few miles from the Alpine home of the Swiss eagle, six birds were immediately put into training.

Machines resembling aeroplanes in shape, but supported by balloons, to which were attached pieces of meat, were sent up, and the eagles let loose. With fierce cries and flapping of their wings they attacked the aeroplanes and tore the meat from them. In their eagerness they fight one another, and the aeroplane is sometimes turned upside down in their struggles. It is inconceivable that any man in an aeroplane, even if there were three or four of them, could retain control of their machine in face of such an attack. One after another the eagles attack all the aeroplane balloons until they are wrecked, and their trainers feel certain that they will now attack real aeroplanes with men in them with the same ferocity.

How will the birdmen parry these attacks? Suppose they carry revolvers or short repeating rifles; to shoot a bird in the air is notoriously difficult, but to shoot half-a-dozen swooping down and clanking at you all at once, seated in a trembling aeroplane, would be well-nigh an impossibility.

The suggestion is made that fighting machines shall have round them electric wires that will give the eagles a powerful shock as they touch them. To do this it will be necessary to carry a dry battery, and this will add to the weight of the machine. The wires, moreover, will increase the danger and difficulty of guiding the aeroplane. The aviator is likely to touch one of the wires and lose control of his car, with fatal result. But the birdmen will certainly have to find ways of protecting themselves against the war-eagles. We may well ask: "What next?"

Noise Killing Mankind.

Man's nerves and hearing apparatus were evolved in comparatively quiet surroundings, to detect faint sounds warning him of danger or of the presence of game. Sudden loud sounds shock the system greatly—in childhood they may cause convulsions.

In time we might evolve a race immune to noise, but it can only be done by killing off those who are most injured by it, and these nervous people often the very ones who are doing the most to advance civilization.

The only thing to do is to make the environment fit for them and not kill them as unfit for the environment. The first step is to abolish unnecessary bells, whistles and street cries. Construct less noisy pavements and give children playgrounds where they can blow steam to their dear hearts' content, and not annoy anyone, not even suffering, head-achy mamma.

A plus who can still the noise of our awful streets and tube railways will be dubbed "blessed" by the world.

Cleaning An Ocean Liner.

Not many people are aware that during a few hours a great ocean liner rains in dock she is cleaned thorough inside and out. The hull is repaired, the funnels scraped and cleaned, and every piece of exposed metal polished.

Meanwhile all carpets are taken up and blown, the floors scrubbed and repaired, and tables repolished, chairs reglued and stained, in every part of the ship. On the great boats there are more than 30,000 pieces of linen to be cut, sorted, prepared, and laundered. Then there are 15,000 pieces of silverware, 25,000 pieces of glassware, some 10,000 dishes, plates, cups, saucers, etc. As soon as a piece shows signs of wear it is discarded and replaced, and all this work has to be done in a few hours.

Master an Bosses.

"Why do you give much attention to pictures?"

"Well," replied Mr. Cassius Chex, "in accumulating my fortune I have come more or less in contact with legislation. I like to spend some time among the old masters in art to get my mind off the fresh bosses in politics."

How He Settles.

"I understand your husband is a man of great abilities."

"He certainly is. He has up four bill collectors yesterday so they can't come back for six months."—Regender Blatter.

Why Not?

Knieker—Think the stock exchange should be regulated?

Boeker—Yes, it should be arranged for stocks to go up when you buy and go down when you sell.

Perished in Vain Sacrifice.
Alice Meadows, an English novelist, was drowned in the Thames in an attempt to rescue her dog, which had fallen into the river. The incident speaks volumes for Miss Meadows' kindness of heart, but nevertheless it was foolish. The dog could swim, and evidently the young woman couldn't.

Small, Smaller, Smallest.
In a drop of water there are about 2,000,000,000,000,000,000 molecules. If one of these molecules were magnified till it appeared twenty feet in diameter the atoms of which it is composed would look like floating specks of dust. And each atom is like a solar system.

BURGLAR POSED AS DOCTOR

Surgeon's Case Contained a Set of "Thieves' Tools, of Which He Had Made Use.

Two detectives in East New York, searching a neighborhood from which had come a report of burglars, encountered a distinguished looking man with a Van Dyke beard, a professional air and a black surgeon's bag with gold letters on it. "Good morning, gentlemen," said he, offering an engraved card. "I am Dr. Leo Brewster, and am unable to find a house on this street from which I received a telephone call to attend an urgent case. Could I ask you to direct me?" The detectives replied that they were sorry not to oblige, but were too busy hunting burglars to look for sick people. The doctor walked briskly on his way. Before he got far the detectives saw a man look out of his front door, as if he might have been expecting a doctor. They shouted after Doctor Brewster. In stead of stopping he began to run away. After a vigorous chase the detectives captured him and found that his surgeon's case held a fine outfit of burglar's tools.

Ancient Election Customs.

No complaint with regard to undue limitation of polling time was possible in the old British parliamentary days. The danger was that polling might be prolonged for a fortnight or a month. Drastic action to bring the poll to a close once provoked a riot in the Westminster division of London. At the general election that began on April 25, 1741, the two Westminster candidates were on the fifth day of polling well ahead; but an opposition party of electors approaching the hustings in great force, the high bailiff (who favored the ministerialists) declared that he feared a riot, and closed the poll. The baffled voters rioted and the military were called out. The high bailiff had afterward to apologize on his knees to the speaker and pay a heavy fine.

Its Gender.

A somewhat angular, severe-looking splinter was standing on the station platform outside a mail coach, inspecting with undisturbed curiosity the ingenious net arrangement which is able to sweep in mail bags while the train is in swift motion.

"Is she working all right?" asked one of the officials.

"Aye, aye, Bill," replied his mate, when suddenly the lady touched him on the shoulder.

"Why do you call it 'she'?" she inquired, as usual athirst for information.

"Because, madam, its a mail catcher," replied the courteous official. And the snuff of the angular splinter almost drowned the shrill whistle of the engine, then preparing to move on.—London Answers.

Modern Traveler.

The modern traveler (the heroic explorers of old belong to another class) is formed by leisure, opportunity and a certain easiness in pecuniary matters—like that plant whose seed vessels burst in heat, so explodes his shell of habit when the sun of prosperity shines warmly, and forthwith he is scattered to the four winds "It's a small world," quoth he brimmedically, as he goes to and fro over the earth, and finds therein many of his kind. Like the man in the cabinet lined with mirrors, his reflections are numerous, and all alike. No wonder he feels like Sancho Pancho Pansa's hazy inhabitant of a mustard-seed world. C. E. D. Phelps.

IVES SALOONS 18 MONTHS IN WHICH TO BECOME MOD

"If Waukegan saloonkeepers when they they are well off the turn over a new leaf and try to duct their places in a more respectable manner," Rev. T. R. Quayle is have declared. "Many of them covered from the shock they when they believed the Five Mile Zone bill was going through. thing for them to do now, if they to remain in business is to in their places in such an exaggerated manner that the many complained against them will be removed."

"The saloons on Market in Waukegan and in North Chicago are especially bad. During the session the Five Mile bill was up for discussion at Springfield, one of the saloons, thinking to aid the saloons, suggested that a investigating-committee be sent to North Chicago to investigate into the saloons. A friend of his at once against such actions and that of the reasons why it was not had such an investigation. Ily walked went to Waukegan. There is no question but that bill would been passed. The same would been true had they walked past North Chicago saloons."

The saloon regulation proposed by Mayor Bidingger which was outlined in his yearly message would accomplish the result suggested by Rev. Quayle. The regulation of the saloons, from Market street, $1,000 license and the restriction of the number of saloons would be anything else to improve character of the saloons.

SUNDY BILL SIGNED

WILSON SAYS ANTI-TRUST LAW EXEMPTION CLAUSE IN ACT IS "UNJUSTIFIABLE."

URGENT NEED PREVENTS VETO

Provision in Appropriation Measure Will Not, However, Prevent Prosecution of Farmers' Organizations and Labor Unions.

Washington, June 25.—President Wilson on Monday signed the sundry civil appropriation bill, vetoed by President Taft as his last official act and the appropriation of $116,000,000 carried in the measure was legalized, subject to the rider which says that none of the funds shall be used for the prosecution of labor union or farmers' organizations. In signing the bill the president issued the following statement:

"I have signed this bill because I can do so without in fact limiting the opportunity or the power of the department of justice to prosecute violations of the law by whomsoever committed.

"If I could have separated from the rest of the bill the item which authorized the expenditure by the department of justice of a special sum of $300,000 for the prosecution of violations of the anti-trust law, I would have vetoed that item, because it places upon the expenditure a limitation which is in my opinion unjustifiable in character and principle. But I could not separate it. I do not understand that the limitation was intended as either an amendment or an interpretation of the anti-trust law, but merely as an expression of the opinion of the congress—a very emphatic opinion backed by an overwhelming majority of the house of representatives and a large majority of the senate, but not intended to touch anything but the expenditure of a single small additional fund.

"I can assure the country that this item will neither limit nor in any way embarrass the actions of the department of justice. Other appropriations supply the department with abundant funds to enforce the law. The law will be interpreted in the determination of what the department should do, by independent and I hope impartial judgments as to the true and just meaning of substantive statutes of the United States."

Exploding Gun at Cherbourg Mars Journey to Visit King George of England.

London, June 25.—President Raymond Poincaré of France arrived at Portsmouth on Tuesday aboard the French battleship Courbet after an immense fleet composed of England's latest warships had fired a royal salute at Spithead.

President Poincaré's visit to London was marred at the very outset when, on his arrival at Cherbourg, two gunners were killed and two wounded by the exploding of a gun as a salute of welcome was fired. The president arrived here to board the French battleship Courbet.

The visit of President Poincaré has aroused the liveliest interest throughout the country. While no important changes in political relations are indicated the hope of the public is that the visit will tend to draw even closer the two friendly countries.

WILL PROBE M'NAB CASE

Wilson Asserts He Saw Nothing Wrong at First Glance—Seeks Report From McReynolds.

Washington, June 25.—President Wilson said on Monday he would ask Attorney General McReynolds for a report of all the circumstances which led to the postponement of the Diggins-Cammetto white slave cases in California, because of which United States Attorney McNab wired his resignation.

The president said he had no knowledge of the affair until he read it in the newspapers, but it appeared to him at first glance that the reason given for the postponement of the cases—that the commissioner general of immigration might attend the trial of his son—was a humane one.

PRESIDENT URGES CURRENCY REFORM

Public Duty Makes Prompt Action Imperative.

READS MESSAGE TO CONGRESS

Business Men of Country Should Be Given Banking and Currency System Which Will Make Possible Individual Initiative.

Washington, June 23.—The following is President Wilson's message to congress on the subject of currency reform:

Mr. Speaker, Mr. President, Gentlemen of the Congress: It is under the compulsion of what seems to me a clear and imperative duty that I have a second time this session sought the privilege of addressing you in person. I know, of course, that the heated season of the year is upon us, that work in these chambers and in the committee rooms is likely to become a burden as the season lengthens, and that every consideration of personal comfort, perhaps, in the cases of some of us, considerations of personal health even, dictate an early conclusion of the deliberations of the session; but there are occasions of public duty when these things which touch us privately seem very small; when the work to be done is so pressing and so fraught with big consequence that we know that we are not at liberty to weigh against it any point of personal sacrifice. It is absolutely imperative that we should give the business men of this country a banking and currency system by means of which they can make use of the freedom of enterprise and of individual initiative which we are about to bestow upon them.

We are about to set them free; we must not leave them without the tools of action when they are free. We are about to set them free by removing the trammels of the protective tariff. Ever since the Civil war they have waited for this emancipation and for the free opportunities it will bring with it. It has been reserved for us to give it to them. Some fell in love, indeed with the slothful security of their dependence upon the government; some took advantage of the shelter of the nursery to set up a mimic mastery of their own within its walls. Now both the tonic and the discipline of liberty and maturity are to ensue. There will be some readjustments of purpose and point of view. There will follow a period of expansion and new enterprise, freshly conceived. It is for us to determine now whether it shall be rapid and facile and of easy accomplishment. This it can not be unless the resourceful business men who are to deal with the new circumstances are to have at hand and ready for use the instrumentalities and conveniences of free enterprise which independent men need when acting on their own initiative.

It is not enough to strike the shackles from business. The duty of statesmanship is not negative merely. It is constructive also. We must show that we understand what business needs and that we know how to supply it. No man, however casual and superficial his observation of the conditions now prevailing in the country, can fail to see that one of the chief things business needs now, and will need increasingly as it gains in scope and vigor in the years immediately ahead of us, is the proper means by which readily to vitalize its credit, corporate and individual, and its original brains. What will it profit us to be free if we are not to have the best and most accessible instrumentalities of commerce and enterprise? What will it profit us to be quit of one kind of monopoly if we are to remain in the grip of another and more effective kind? How are we to gain and keep the confidence of the business community unless we show that we know how both to aid and to protect it? What shall we say, if we make fresh enterprise necessary and also make it very difficult by leaving all else except the tariff just as we found it? The tyrannies of business, big and little, lie within the field of credit. We know that. Shall we not act upon the knowledge? Do we not know how to act upon it? If a man cannot make his assets available at pleasure, his assets of capacity and character and resource, what satisfaction is it to him to see opportunity beckoning to him on every hand, when others have the keys of credit in their pockets and treat them as all but their own private possession? It is perfectly clear that it is our duty to supply the new banking and currency system the country needs, and that it will immediately need it more than ever.

The only question is, When shall we supply it—now, or later, after the demands shall have become reproaches that we were so dull and so slow? Shall we hasten to change the tariff laws and then be laggards about making it possible and easy for the country to take advantage of the change? There can be only one answer to that question. We must act now, at whatever sacrifice to ourselves. It is a duty which the circumstances forbid us to postpone. I should be recreant to my deepest convictions of public obligation did I not press it upon you with solemn and urgent insistence. The principles upon which we should act are clear. The country has seen its path in this matter the last few years—see it before now than it ever saw it the more clearly than when subjective proposals on the currency were made. We must have a elastic rigid as now, but readily, the expensive to sound credit, of ever and contracting credits ebb and insurances, the normal dealings personal and corporate bilize re banking laws must mo-concentra must not permit the of the mo resources of the coun-pose in some as to hinder or more legiti more fruitful uses. And the co the system of bank-ing and of which our new laws are to set up be public, not private, must be in the govern-ment itself, the banks may be the instrument the masters of business and individual enterprise and initiative.

The committee the congress to which legislation is referred have a careful and dispassionate study of the means of accomplishing these things. They have honored me by asking me. They are ready to suggestion. I have come to you, as the leader of the party in power, while there is time to try deliberately and clearly of common sense to you with a deep conviction. I therefore appeal to your confidence. I am at your out reserve to play my part in this great enterprise of reform which it will dignify and distinguish us to perform and discuss to neglect.

PASSION FOR THE FLOR

Medical Officer Finds Fault Custom of Using Poorers for Sleep.

In the course of lecture personal hygiene at the Royal Institute, Prof. H. R. Kenney, medical officer of health for Belhrie, dealt with "The Home." Might be done for the prevention of disease by the improvement of the house, he said, according to the Daily Telegraph. Wherever there dirt there was also degradation. It was the really invisible dirt, the form of germs in the atmosphere that was the most harmful. It was essential in dealing with the make the acts of cleansing as possible, and there should be heavy pieces of furniture to no nalled-down carpets, but mo-strips and squares and light wash curtains. It should be remember that there is no such thing as cleaning. Dusting was a mere turbance of particles unless a da-cloth, tea leaves or wet sand we employed.

Was there, he asked, anything more absurd than to find a little house in shabby genteel street with its bedroom accommodation overtaxed and the best apartment used as the parlor—that holy of holies, with its odor that might be called sanctimonious, and occupying cubic space that could be far better used? This passion for the parlor was almost like the fetish of the uncivilized.

Direct sunshine, with its regenerative power and germicide effects, should not be reduced by heavy curtains. It was the soundest of investments to make the home as healthy and attractive as possible. The cuckoo type of parent, depositing its children at school and expecting them to learn everything there, should realize that the true influences in youth are those of the home itself.

Obliterating Field of Waterloo.

While Americans are observing the semi-centennial of Gettysburg, and thousands study the battle by the aid of the monuments and markers on the battlefield, complaint comes to England that the Waterloo terrain is in danger. While La Hale Sainte and Hougoumont still bear the marks of cannon shot, both are in danger of being rebuilt, and part of the Hougoumont wall against which the wave of French courage dashed in vain has already been pulled down. That is not the worst of the situation, according to a British officer who recently visited the field. "Tramcars and cheap fares have been followed by 'tawdry cafes' located on the very spot whence the Imperial Guard recoiled. What is to be done? The suggestion is that co-operation of Belgians and Englishmen who would preserve the topography of Waterloo make be effective in doing for that famous field what has been done for Gettysburg, but the first step, it is admitted, will be very expensive. If preservation is not organized there is danger that the strategic points will be obliterated by garden and farm field.—Boston Transcript.

To Train Porch Vines.

One of the best labor-saving arrangements is a device to fasten the strings or wire netting for the vines of the porch. A strip of wood one inch square and about six feet long, with a strong screw eye at each end, is all that is needed. Drive two nails into the upper part of the porch, the same distance apart as the screw eyes, then after tying the strings onto the strip lift it up and hook the screw eyes over the nails. Fasten the lower ends of the strings into the ground with small pegs and train the vines on them.

HEADQUARTERS OF LEE AT GETTYSBURG

14 KILLED IN CRASH

TRAINS MEET HEAD-ON NEAR VALLEJO, CAL., WRECK CARS.

Many Buried in Debris—Work of Extricating Dead Made Difficult by Wreckage.

Vallejo, Cal., June 21.—Two interurban trains on the San Francisco, Napa & Callistoga electric line came together one mile north of here on Thursday and telescoped. Fourteen persons were killed and twenty others were injured, several fatally. The trains were traveling at high speed at the time of the collision.

In an instant the two trains were reduced to a high heap of wreckage. Passengers were heaped about and buried beneath the pile of splintered wood and twisted steel.

Partial list of dead: H. G. Hunt, San Francisco. George L. Holzworth, San Francisco.

S. E. Jowewski, San Francisco. Chris Koch, San Francisco. Miss Gail, San Francisco. J. F. Grabel, Vallejo. E. C. Judd, Vallejo. P. Herbert, Napa. O. McQuaide, San Diego. S. H. Dayton, residence unknown. Unidentified man.

The in-bound train was in charge of William Laurez motorman, and E. E. Catton, conductor. James Tough was at the motor of the out-bound train with C. Richards as conductor.

The work of extricating the passengers, some dead and others severely injured, was begun at once. Owing to manner in which both trains telescoped it was extremely difficult to locate some of the unfortunate and women, who were buried in the wreckage.

WILSON SEES M'ADOO WED

President Attends Wedding of Secretary of Interior's Son at Baltimore.

Washington, June 23.—President Wilson, Secretary of the Interior Lane, Secretary of Commerce Redfield, Secretary of War D. C. Hoagland, and Dr. Grayson left Washington at one o'clock by automobile for Baltimore, where they attended the wedding of Francis Huger M'Adoo, son of Secretary of the Treasury M'Adoo, and Miss Ethel Preston Cornick, stepdaughter of Capt. ### SCALED MT. M'KINLEY

ARCHDEACON STUCK AND COMPANION REACH SUMMIT.

Message Tells of Earthquakes and of Men Cutting Path for Three Miles.

Seattle, Wash., June 23.—Archdeacon Hudson Stuck, the Episcopal missionary who set out from Fairbanks, Alaska, several months ago to climb Mount McKinley, reached the summit of the highest peak of the great mountain June 7, according to a private cable dispatch received here Friday.

News of the success of the expedition was received by a messenger sent by Dr. Stuck, who is resting at the base camp. Archdeacon Stuck expects to return to Fairbanks in August and will go to New York in October as delegate for Alaska to the general convention of the Episcopal church.

Dr. Stuck and his assistants erected a six-foot cross on the summit of the great mountain. Observations made with the mercurial barometer indicate the height of the mountain is 20,500 feet.

The expedition expected to reach the summit of Mount McKinley in May, but was delayed three weeks in cutting a passage three miles long by through ice thrown across the ridge by an earthquake last summer.

The upper basin shows evidences of a violent upheaval and the ridges are shattered, but the summits are not marred.

WILSON WILL SIGN

PRESIDENT TELLS CABINET HE WILL FAVOR SUNDY CIVIL APPROPRIATION MEASURE.

TARIFF AMENDMENTS MANY

Changes Have Support of Senate Finance Body, Which Has Submitted Bill to Democratic Caucus—Oppose Currency Bill.

Washington, June 23.—Wilson informed his cabinet that he will sign the sundry civil appropriation bill carrying $116,000,000 and that he will issue a statement giving his reasons for doing so.

The Underwood tariff bill as amended by the senate finance committee was submitted to a caucus of the senate Democrats. This marks the last important stage of the bill before it is finally reported to the senate and made the target for Republican attacks.

With large additions to the free list and drastic reductions in the metal schedule, the Underwood tariff bill as amended by the senate finance committee and reported to the Democratic caucus was made public here. The revenue producing qualities of the bill have been increased, however, in the face of many reductions by a provision imposing a duty of five cents a bunch on bananas and removing from brandies a large preferential heretofore given them.

Wheat and flour have been retained on the free list subject to a fixed countervailing duty. The bill as reported is expected to produce five million dollars more revenue than as passed by the house. The only material increase in duty was in the cotton schedule. This, like the wool schedule, was reclassified to place slightly higher duties on highly manufactured products.

As reported to the Democratic caucus by the senate finance committee, beet and sugar cane machinery, allzarin and colors obtained from anthracene have been added to the free list. Russian seg, New Zealand and Norwegian tow, jute waste, suitable for the manufacture of paper, all books used in schools and educational institutions, sand blast and sludge machines, all hydraulic machines, catgut for surgical use, creosote oil, glaziers diamonds and diamond clust, and eggs of all fowls have been placed on the free list.

Cattle, sheep and all other domestic live animals suitable for human food, not otherwise provided for, are other additions to the free list.

Opposition to the Owen-Glass currency measure was voiced by the minority members of the senate banking and currency committee. The proposed Democratic bill was termed an extension of the Vreeland measure and contains defects that must be eliminated before it is enacted into law. The Republican committee also asserted that the currency legislation could not be enacted at the present session of congress without Republican support.

Federal control of banking as provided in the new measure was criticized especially and the different rates of interest provided for the proposed banking regions were attacked.

Senator Nelson, ranking minority member of the committee, said: "I believe many changes will have to be made before the public will sanction the new bill."

"I thought they were going to give us something new," said Senator Bristow, "but they only have foisted off the old Vreeland measure with all its defects."

"I think there are many things that will have to be changed in the measure," said Senator Weeks, "though I am heartily in favor of currency legislation during the present session."

WORK OF ILLINOIS GENERAL ASSEMBLY

List of New Laws That Have Been Placed on the Statute
Books of the State.

SOME MEASURES OF MOMENT

Bill Providing for Woman Suffrage
Most important of the Legislative Doings—Appropriations Exceed Those Made at the Preceding Session.

Springfield.—The Forty-eighth general assembly concluded its actual work June 20. Actual sine die adjournment will not come until June 30. This is the technical requirement for the mass of bills which were passed by both houses and sent to the governor on the last day. He has that time to act on them. He may veto some.

The chances for an extra session being called by Governor Dunne were made greater by the defeat of the home rule amendment to the public utilities bill.

The most important bills passed by the legislature during the session follow:

Appropriations.
The appropriations of the session amount to $38,000,000, as compared with $29,000,000 in the last session.

CHARGES BIG PLOT

GOV. SULZER'S REFUSAL TO
"LOOT STATE" LEADS MURPHY TO ASSAIL HIM.

IS SURROUNDED WITH SPIES

New York Executive Declares in Bitter Statement That No Man Can Ruin Him or Tell Him How to Run Office.

Albany, N. Y., June 24.—Governor Sulzer accuses Charles F. Murphy, Tammany chieftain, of being behind a conspiracy to blacken his character because he refused to do his bidding. The governor's story was bitter in its denunciation of Tammany's leader and replete with allegations that Murphy had attempted to influence the executive's action as to legislation, appointments and removal from office.

"I listened to his propositions," the governor said, "but refused to do what he wanted me to do, because, in my opinion, it was wrong."

"Was it as to patronage?" the governor was asked.

"Yes, and Stilwell, and direct primaries," was the reply. "I told him not to issue orders to save Stilwell and to let the legislature pass a fair and direct primary bill. He refused. I left him. That was the last."

Adding that he was surrounded with spies, the governor said he had been threatened with ruin unless he did as he was bidden.

"I have always answered," he concluded, "as I am answering now: No man can ruin me but William Sulzer. I refused to be part of a criminal conspiracy to loot the state."

CRAIG MURDER CASE OPENS

Dean of Indiana Veterinary College on Trial for Killing Dr. Helen Knabe.

Indianapolis, Ind., June 24.—What promises to be one of the most spectacular murder trials in the history of Indianapolis began here Monday, when Dr. William B. Craig faced the court to answer a charge of murder in connection with the mysterious death of Dr. Helen Knabe, who was found in her bed on the morning of October 24, 1911, with her head almost severed from her body.

Rumors became rife soon after the murder that Doctor Craig and Miss Knabe had been engaged to be married and had quarreled shortly before the tragedy. Mrs. Tennant, housekeeper for Doctor Craig, who is about forty years of age, a widow and has resided in Indianapolis for the past fifteen years, informed detectives that Doctor Knabe had called on Doctor Craig two nights before her death and that a quarrel had ensued.

Demand for Bank Reserves.
Within 60 days after the establishment of a federal reserve bank every national banking association shall establish with the federal reserve bank of its district a credit balance on the books of the latter institution equal to not less than three per cent. of its own total demand liabilities, exclusive of 14 months this amount shall be increased to five per cent.

National banking associations classified as country banks and situated outside of central reserve and reserve cities must maintain a reserve equal to 15 per cent. of the aggregate amount of their deposits. National banks in reserve cities must maintain a reserve of 25 per cent. of their outstanding deposits for 26 months after the passage of the bill and for 12 months thereafter 22 1/2 per cent., and at the end of 38 months permanently a reserve of 20 per cent. of their standing deposits.

Every federal reserve bank must at all times have in its vaults in gold or lawful money a sum equal to not less than 33 1/3 per cent. of its outstanding demand liabilities.

Drastic Examination Provided.
Drastic and frequent examination of national banking associations are provided for.

Any national bank making a loan or gratuity to an examiner is subject to a fine of $1,000 and the officer or officers of the bank authorizing it to an additional fine of $500. Any examiner accepting the loan or gratuity is fined $500 and disqualified from office.

No officer or director of any bank may be a beneficiary of his transaction made on behalf of his bank. Should he violate this provision he will be punished by a fine of not less than $5,000 or by a penitentiary sentence of three years, or both.

Responsibility on Persons.
The stockholders of every national banking association will be held individually responsible for all obligations of such association.

Any national banking association not situated in a reserve city may make farm loans, equal to 25 per cent. of its capital and surplus or 50 per cent. of its time deposits.

Any national banking association capitalized at $1,000,00
